EDITORIAL.

The interior arrangements of retail drug stores are becoming more artistic in their appearance every year. Some years ago it seemed that almost, "any old thing," as the saying goes, would do to fit up a drug store, provided they had the necessary price to offer. Shaped show bottles, filled with colored water, to put in the window. Of course in large cities one would find here and there a finely fitted store, but in small country towns hardly ever. All this is now changed and very often the drug store of a small country town can give the city store points on fine interiors, both in quality and style of fixtures and arrangements and effect. Very soon, prob ably beginning with our next number, we intend publishing in half-tone the interior of a large number, from photo's taken by our secretary, Mr. Bunny, when he was "on the road." Of course it was impossible for Mr. Bunny to take photo's of all of the handsome interiors even in his own territory, so we wish to say that any one having a picture of his store that he would liked published in half-tone, please send it in to us and it will give us sincere pleasure to publish it with a description of same.

It has developed that there is considerable opposition to the National Retail Druggists' Association which organized and started its good work in St. Louis last October. The principles of the organization are all right and if not killed by the retail druggist that should be its stalwart friend rather than its enemy, it bids fair to be the most beneficial organization of its kind ever organized for his benefit. The opposition comes from Chicago in the shape of an individual that, had he been elected president of the new organization he would not now be criticising the acts and instructions of those individuals that were elected to office. Of course the principles as laid down in the constitution and bylaws cannot be attacked by any sane man there. The only apparent way to get square on account of this jealous feeling is to attack the officers, and in this manner seek to disrupt the entire scheme of National organization. Our advice to druggists is to support through their state associations the National Retail Druggists' Association, organized on sound business principles, with rare good judgment, at St. Louis in October last.

Market Review.

The business boom still keeps "a jumpin"." Stocks continue to move upward, with no signs of any breaks, which means confidence that prosperity will continue.
Consumption in all lines of manufacture is on the increase and the money market in the financial centres is easy. In our line the advances still continue to outstrip the declines and on a large number of articles, if the retailer has not taken advantage of lower prices on spring stocks, than prevail to-day, we believe there is still a chance to save money by buying now on some leading articles that seem bound to go still higher,

ADVANCED-Quinine. Gum Camphor. Flax Seed. Balsam Fir. Golden Seal. Mustard Seed. Vanilla Beans. Cinchonidia, Japan Wax. Calomel. Corrosive Sublimate. White Precipitate. Red Precipitate. Canary Seed Smyrna. Rape Seed German. Poppy Seed Blue. Bucha Leaves. Oil Wintergreen. Epsom Salts. Linseed Oil. Turpentine. White Lead. DECLINED-Opium. Strychnine. Oil Cassia.

Jam. Ginger Root.
Russian Hemp Seed.
Oil Bergamot.
Oil Lemon.

Oil Peppermint.
Gentian Root.

Menthol.

Cod Liver Oil.

Cloves. Salieylic Acid. ACID CITRIC—

On account of a reported shortage of juice crop a still further advance on this article is predfeted. Our prices are still 40 to 44, according to quantity.

CINCHONIDIA-

On account of the prevailing high prices of Quinine it is only natural that this article should likewise advance in value, which it has done. P. & W. in ource vials is now 30 cents.

COCAINE-

On account of the high price of leaves this article remains firm with an advancing tendency. We still quote Boehringer's

1-oz boittles per oz	3 50
½-oz bottles per oz	3 55
¼-oz bottles per oz	3 60
1/8-oz bottles per oz	3 70
5-gr. vials per vial	8
10-gr. vials per vial	12
COCOA BRETTER-

Since our last issue this article has both advanced and declined, although the decline was not as great as the advance, leaving a net higher price. We are offering at attractive prices.

BALSAMS-

Fir has had a slight advance in price. Tolu is firm. Copaiba shows no change.

BEANS-

Vanillas, both Mexican and Bourbons, have advanced in price. We were shown, the past week, a sample of "Mexican" Vanilla Bean that a customer bought of a "headquarter's" for $9.50 per pound in 10-pound lots. Of course it was nothing but a Bourbon and did not begin to equal in size and quality the bean we were selling for $9.00 in single pound lots. No change to report in Toncas.

CLOVES-

Show a decline. EPSOM SALTS-

Has advanced nearly 20 per cent. In New York city. One of the largest manufactures have largely oversold their output so that they cannot accept any new business excepting for future delivery, and another one has withdrawn from the market entirely.

COD LIVER OIL

On account of poor reports from the Lofoden fisheries this article is ruling a trifle stronger than it was a month ago. We look for no Immediate change in price. We send our customers only the finest Lofoden Oil on orders not carrying in stock, at all the cheap Newfoundhand Oil. Send your orders to the house that you know will give you nothing but the best.

ESSENTIAL OILS-

Oil Wintergreen, Natural, is on the advance list, having worked into a very firm position. We have heard of this oil being offered alt considerably less than the cost price. How any retailer can fool himself into thinking that he is getting straight goods at ridiculously low prices is beyond our comprehension. Buy the Natural and Artificial and do your own mixing. You

GUMS-

There are no changes to report excepting on Camphor, which is in a very strong advancing position. It is reported that Japan has passed a bill controlling the gathering and exporting of the Crude for revenue purposes. Should this prove to be a fact 55 cent to 60 cent Camphor is not very far off.

GUM OPIUM-

Still weak with no demand and prospects ahead for a good crop. It was supposed that when the small holders were gotten out of the way that the price would stiffen but on account of lack of buying the reverse has taken place. The buyers for American account that were in the Smyrna and Constantinople markets withdrew when it became evident that the new crop would probably be a large one and prices would from natural causes go lower. We bill both the Gum and Powdered at the lowest market price ruling on day order is received.

JAPAN WAX-

Is slightly higher in price.

LEAVES-

Buchus are tending toward a higher level prices having been marked up 3 cents to 5 cents per pound. No other changes to note. LINSEED OIL-

This article has also advanced as predicted, although not as much as the market on seed warranted. The price in New York is 43 cents for Raw and 45 cents for Boiled. Our prices are under these. Drop us a postal for quotations. Some factories are talking 50 cent oil for May.

MENTHOL-

There has been a slight decline of 5 cents per pound.

MERCURIALS-

MORPHINE-

Calomel, Corrosive Sublimate, White Precipitate, and Red Precipitate has again been advanced by the manufacturers 2 cents per pound.

There has been no change in the price of this article. We are still quoting:

OTIENTNE-

As predicted in our February issue, this article advanced before we mailed the Price List to the trade so we, at once, had printed the little extra slip that went with the list, advising a four-cent advance. Since then two more advances of two cents each have taken place and the end is not yet. The supply of Bark is running short and with the increased consumption of Quinine prices are bound to go still higher. London market is higher than ours. Of course the price of Quinine Pills will be advanced in proportion.

Our prices to-day are as follows:

Golden Seal has advanced 10 cents per pound since our last issue. Supplies are limited. Gentian Root is ruling slightly lower. Jamacia Ginger Root is also easing off on account of new crop coming in.

STRYCHNINE-

Has been reduced in price 10 cents per SEEDS-

Canary Seed, German Rape, and Blue Poppy have all noted a slight advance. Celery Seed, Coriander and Russian a slight decline. From pre-Hemp, both Triest sent indications mustards, and California will show a higʻh range next fall. Flax Seed has advanced another quarter-cent per pound. SALICYLIC ACID-

Has declined slx cents per pound. TURPENTINE-

Since our last issue this article has touched the highest price known in at least ten years. We expect it will continue to advance or at least remain at its present figure for a month or six weeks. As we receive our Turpentine direct from the South we are in a position to compete favorably and invite your inquiries. WHITE LEAD-

The probable advance mentioned in our last issue came about as we expected. It was a quarter of a cent per pound and we expect to see it followed by another one of a quarter of a cent. If it don't come we will be much disappointed.

LOADED SPONGES ONCE MORE.

The loading of sponges is still practiced, notwithstanding the number of times it has been exposed in the columns of the Reporter. At first sand and lime were used. The sophisticators, when found out, discarded these substances, and later they resorted to glycerine and silicate of soda. In every instance they have been exposed, but they are bound to defraud the public if they can find any way of doing so without being detected. Latterly they resorted to brine and sand. They dip the sponge in the brine and a large quantity of it is absorbed. Only a small quantity of the sand is used, however. Thus they are enabled to offer Florida sheeps' wool here at less than $2.70 per pound, which is the price bid on the wharf at Key West by the sellers of pure goods. It is a pity that the practice of loading sponges cannot be stopped. There is but one way, so far as we can see, and that is to refuse to patronize any but reputable houses and to pay a fair price for a pure article. Unfortunately, dealers are in a measure responsible for a certain amount of loading practiced, as they insist on having a cheap sponge, and several of them are now buving sponges which they know to be sanded. -0. HOW TO MAKE A SODA FOUNTAIN PAY...

By F. de C. Davies.

My drug store was in Charlottetown, Prince Edward Island, and was started in the latter part of the year 1890. Finding trade rather slow, and looking around for something to increase my business, thought that if I put in a good fountain, 1 would thereby advertise my drug business, my purpose being merely to use it as an advertising scheme. I was warned by others, who had tried it in the wrong way, (that is, by buying an old fountain, using five pounds of ice instead of fifty; using essential oils in their syrups, instead of fruit juices; and not keeping things clean about their fountain) not to go into the business. for they could not make it pay.

There were not fifty people in Charlotte-town who really knew the taste of a glass of pure soda water. I mean such soda as one can get in any first class store in the United States. Therefore, I had before me a hard, up-hill climb, to educate a people to drink and know what a glass of soda was. I purchased a "Gaelic" apparatus of Tufts' manufacture, and at the very first I found the trade began to come to me by eaps and bounds, which fact I put down to my having the best fountain in the city.

In the matter of cylinders for soda I thought I would only have to get them charged by a local manufacturer who supplied the other dealers with soda. I soon found my mistake; the two special objections being the quality of the soda and the failure of supply. The inferior quality of the soda I attributed to insufficient pressure.

Having found by this experience that I could not expect to secure and keep a position ahead of the others by following their methods, I at once ordered a Sterling generator, with two purifiers attached, capable of generating sixty gallons of soda water at a time. While awaiting its arrival I studied up the process of making soda in every detail, and by the time it arrived was well versed theoretically in the mysteries of the art. After setting the machine in order, which I do myself, without the aid of a mechanic, I proceeded to make soda, and the result was far beyond my expectations.

As I became more adept in the process of generating, I found less 'trouble in carrying out the program of manufacture, until making soda was as easy as drawing it from the fountain. At last I found the secret of success, and the results showed alt once, by the increase of trade and complimentary remarks of my customers regarding the improvement of my soda. "Davies' Soda" had become a househow word. When I say that in a town of 12,000 inhabitants I have sold over eight hundred glasses of soda in a single day, I give a practical illustration of the result of my efforts.

In the matter of cleanliness, I soon found that one cannot be too careful. Also in the surroundings of the fountain, never allowing a speck of dust to lodge about the stand. In regard to the glasses, I decided to use the ten-ounce thin glasses, in preference to the standard heavy tumblers, giving my patrons a full glass of soda, having only a narrow bead of foam on its top. change was at once appreciated, and soon a had all the trade to w.ich I could attend. I have seen my store filled to the doors with crowds of thirsty people, who a year previous did not know the taste of a glass of soda, clearly showing that there are two ways to do a thing, a right and a wrong the house from which I procured my apparatus, finding by experience that they were without doubt the best, and turning cut according to the directions given.

My advice to those contemplating going into the soda water business is, if you cannot do it right, and have not the inclination to look after every little detail personally, making your customers see that you have their interests at heart and are trying in every way to please them and give them what they are willing to pay for, viz., the best glass of soda water in town, then stay cut of it, for you will in time lose all you have put into it.

Do not be afraid to use plenty of wellloken ice. It is a great mistake to try and economzie in this rspect. Study your clerk, and see if he 'takes with your patrons. Some young men have not the manner of serving customers to their satisfaction, which is a great drawback in the matter of trade, however nice your soda may be.

I always use a perfectly clean sponge in taking up any water, syrup, etc., which may be spilled about the counter or fountain, as it may be washed out at once, and looks as fresh as new.

In conclusion, I would say that whereas I started in the soda business as an advertisement, I ended in making it the paying part of the business, showing that with the best fountain, best soda (ice cold), best fruit juices, thin glasses, keeping everything clean beyond a doubt, and personal attention to every detail, I made my soda fountain pay.—Pharm. Era.

POISONING BY HEADACHE POWDERS.

Dr. Robert W. Greenleaf reports a case of poisoning by headache powders. An analysis of others remaining in the packet purchlased showed that they contained each three grains of acetanilid, two grains of phenacetin and a little caffeine. Five of these had been taken during the night. The patient when seen exhibited an extreme degree of cyanosis. This was of a peculiar bluish tinge. It was most marked in the fingers and lips, and it spread out into surrounding areas in a diffuse fashion. The pulse was weak, but otherwise the patient did not appear so ill as the degree of cyanosis would lead one to expect. Examination of the heart, lungs, and urine did not reveal a sufficient cause for the con-A few rales from a chronic bronchitis and a weak heart were the only noteworthy signs excepting the cyanosis. The immediate treatment consisted of rest and aromatic spirit of ammonia. Under these strength gradually returned.-Druggists' Circular.

ANTISEPSIS IN THE BARBER SHOP.

According to a Chicago paper some barbers, aided by medical friends, will present a bill to the next Legislature requiring the disinfection of all towels, sponges, brushes, etc., which may be required in the business the barber. Under the proposed law nothing but strictly antiseptic barber shops will be allowed in Illinois. The bill will provide that all barber shops shall be under the contro of the State Board of Health, and each pay a license of $10 a year. The license shall only be granted after a thorough examination of the applicant's shop has been made and its sanitary conditions approved. Each individual barber shall also pass an examination as to his knowledge of the trade and of the use of disinfectants. The barber shall also have worked at his trade a certain number of years. The tools, brushes, towels and other articles in use in the shop must be thoroughly sterilized after being used, according to regulations the Board of Health may make.

A TEST FOR A PHARMACIST.

"Did you notice that man going out of the door," said one of the leading druggists of the city Sunday afternoon, as I held down one of his comfortable chairs, enjoyed the heat coming from the radiator and once in a while helped myself to the contents of a box of sample cough drops that lay open on the counter. I nodded my head in a careless way, expecting a choice morsel of scandal, but not wanting him to realize that I was too eager, for fear he would not reveal anything.

"Well, he can thank his lucky stars that I know my business or this would have been his last day on earth," he continued.

I was interested in earnest.

"Oh, you need not jump like that. It sall so. You see he brought me in a prescription from one of the leading doctors in the city. I looked at the prescription and started to go back to the case to fill it. I looked at it a second time, rubbed my eyes, laid it down on the counter, went and dusted off a counter, and went back and read it again. This time I was thoroughly aroused. Something was evidently wrong.

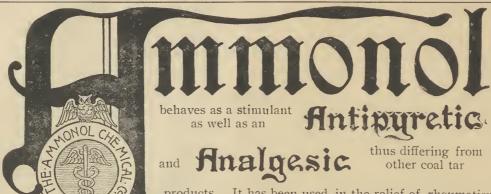

"The compound to be mixed was an important one and a strong remedy. I know what was usually prescribed, but such proportions were never given as this prescription's. The last time I read it it was clear that in his hurry the doctor who wrote it had made a simple mistake, and yet one which if the prescription fell into the hands of a green drug clerk, might have been fatal."

Did you fill the prescription?" I asked.

"Why certainly," he replied, carelessly, "I simply made up the article as it should have been and in the correct proportions. The customer was none the wiser, found a little fault at the dclay because he had missed a car waiting, paid his money and went out. Did I say anything to the doctor? Why certainly not. If I had he would have called me down in most harsh terms. Would have told me that was what I was paid for-had simply done it for a joke to Well, I test me, or would have said: guess I know my business,' and in the future would have sent his prescriptions elsewhere. All of which goes to prove," he concluded, as I ate the last cough drop in the box, "that when you are handling poisons you should know your business and that the present law in regard to licensed pharmacists is an excellent one and cannot be too rigidly enforced."-Elmira Gazette.

A BOTANICAL ODDITY.

One of the botanical oddities of Massachusetts is the existence of the English broom which grows in only two places-in Sterling this country, and in Salem. It is not a native plant, and how it got across the water is a mystery. Perhaps some homesick colonist caused it to be sent to him, that the hills about his new home might have the familiar appearance of the old country. It is a belautiful golden yellow in color, and grows in a compact, spire-like plant, with blossoms close together. So thick are the stalks that the pastures are like sheets of gold, and at first sight seem to be buttercups in masses. Arba Plerce brought some of it into the city and proposes to make a display of it at the exhibition of the horticultural society. Every one has heard of the broom. English and Scotch literature is full of it. It was the flower of the royal house, for Plantagenet is the French for broom plant-a-genet. Their ancestor. Count d'Anjou, wore a string of broom as a bladge, therefore their name. The name broom is given it because of its usefulness for the purpose,-Worcester Gazette.

products. It has been used in the relief of rheumatism and neuralgic pains, and in the treatment of the sequelae of alcoholic excess.

AMMONOL is also prepared in the form of salicylate, bromide and lithiate. The presence of Ammonia in a more or less free stategives it additional properties as an expectorant, diuretic and corrective of hyperacidity.— London Lancet.

AMMONOL is one of the derivatives of coal-tar, and differs from the numerous similar products in that it contains Ammonia in active form. As a result of this, AMMONOL possesses marked stimulating and expectorant properties. The well-known cardaic depression induced by other antipyretics has frequently prohibited their use in otherwise suitable cases. The introduction of a similar drug possessed of stimulating properties is an event of much importance. AMMONOL possesses marked antineuralgic properties, and it is claimed to be especially useful in cases of dysmenorrhoea.—The Medical Magazine, London.

Ammonol is a powerful antipyretic and analgesic. It has no depressant offects, but, on the contrary, stimulates the heart and circulatory system. It is superior to any of the coal-tar derivatives thus far discovered in the treatment of fèvers and neuralgias, It is an invaluable remedy in dyspeptic disorders, for the relief and permanent cure of gastralgia, hyperacidity of the stomach and atonic dyspepsia.

The salicylates are everywhere recognized as valuable in the treatment AMMONOL SALICYLATE. of rheumatic and gouty affections, but their usefulness is often interfered with by the great tendency which they have to derange digestion.

Ammonol Salicylate given in doses of from five to ten grains stimulates the eliminative process and at the same time removes the pain, thus avoiding the use of morphia. The addition of Ammonol to the Salicylate exerts a synergistic effect over the entire range of the Salicylic Acid, and the compound resulting from the combination of the two is far more effective than the Sodium Salicylate or the Ammonium Salicylate. At the same time the Ammonol Salicylate is tolerated by the most delicate stomach, and can be given when the other Salicylates cannot be borne. It is a freely soluble salt which is rapidly absorbed, and promptly produces, when given in sufficient amount, cinchonism that marks the salicylic action. The Ammonol Salicylic is sold only in bottles containing one ounce of the powder or

COST MARK FOR "COPY" PRESCRIPTIONS.

It has been a question with druggists how to adjust the charge on a prescription which has been previously filled one several times by other druggists, who, however, 'ive no indication of the price they charged. The druggist who compounds such a "copy" or "retill" is equally anxious to avoid overcharge or undercharge. Either is undesirable, for many There is some objection to reasons. marking the price upon the prescription in plain figures. Whether it be feasible to overcome the difficulty by the adoption of a secret mark, to be known to and followed by all druggists, is the problem. We have little faith in such a solution, as the lack of unity and organiation among druggists is very general an notorious; still any suggestion in this direction is commend-L. P. Holhauer, thinks he has arrived at a way out of the woods, and we take pleasure in printing his views, as folows:

I have often had the unpleasantness of filling a prescription from some brother druggist of some other city, who has given the patient a copy (as have all druggists), and each time it would be a sort of biteyour-teeth task after it was tilled to tell the customer the price. Either you filled it live or ten cents less, or charged five or ten cents more, and in either case it gives the patient room for a think. This should certainly be avoided, as the copy prescriptions are on the increase. I gave a copy yesterday to a patient going to Mansfield, Ohio, and this same thing came to me again. If I could only mark the price so my brother druggists could know the price. I studied along a little, and came to the following decision. All pharmacists read the item as it is carried from one journal to another, and it would not be long until all brother druggists would know how much to charge.

Use the word "Pharmacist" spelled this way:

*p-h-a-r-m-o-c-i-s-t, 1-2-3-4--5--6--7-8-9-0,

So when you give a copy and you lilled it for forty cents, mark it thus:

"T.," for transient, always capital.
"r. t.," for 40 cents, making the mark

"r. t.," for 40 cents, making the mark

For this prescription 1 charged 40 cents and gave a copy. Every druggist would then know exactly what to charge.

Some may criticize this by saying some druggists might be benefited by charging 5 cents less for it. I think differently, as the patient looks at it in one of two ways, either he got robbed the first time, or the druggist who filled the copy didn't put in all the medicine. If you charge 5 cents more, the patient takes the situation vicc-versa.—Era.

GETTING RID O FLOAFERS.

If there is any one class of business afflicted, more than another, with loungers and loafers around the shop, it is the retail drug business, especially in the smaller clties and towns. That it does not, however, have a monopoly in this direction is shown by the 'following, which we take from the Kansas City Times, of a recent date, and which furnishes a hint that may be of value in getting rid of the nuisances:

A number of uninvited guests assembled in the office of the Kende undertaking establishment yesterday and began to crack jokes, and incidentally to rub all the paint off the furniture by placing their boots in places that were not intended for boots. All went well for a time, but the proprietor at last came in and at once determined to put an end to the little rally.

"George," said he, carelessly addressing one of the employees, "that was a mighty bad case of small-pox that woman died of, wasn't it?"

"Yes, sir, it was pretty bad," said George, taking the hint, "and that house isn't clear of germs yet, either. I am almost afraid to go back there again, if I haven"t got it already."

The talk suddenly ceased and three or four of the more timid began to move toward the door.

"As long as the body is back there in the morgue, George, you had better use some disinfectants every few hours," continued the undertaker perking his thumb toward the rear end of the establishment and seeming to pay no heed to the movements of the crowd.

That last sentence was enough for the idiers. With a rush they made for the door and in less than five seconds there was not one of the crowd in sight.

"Why, there is no small-pox case here," said Mr. Kendle to the health officer who drove up a few minutes latter, his horse all covered with foam. "You are at perfect liberty to look the establishment over, but we have had no case of that kind at all," and he smiled a satisfied smile as the health officer drove down the street.

SHOOTING PETROLEUM WELLS. By John P. Herrick.

There is at least one class of men who are never bored by life insurance agents. They are the nervy fellows known in the oil regions as "shooters." Their business is to draw nitro-glycerine from the storage magazines to the oil wells and explode the charge in the oil-bearing rock at a depth varying from 500 to 3,000 feet. So hazardous is the work that the life and accident insurance companies refuse to rate them at all. Their work takes them over rough mountain roads in all kinds of weather and at all seasons of the year. As a rule, they are fearless fellows, with muscles of iron and nerves of steel, and a knowledge of the risk they usually makes them very careful. They are the Rough Riders of the oil country. A careless shooter soon takes the sky route.

Nitro-glycerine, or "stock," as the shooters call it, is drawn from the magazines to the wells in a low wagon, the box of which rests on long, heavy springs. The box is divided into sells, into which an 8-quart can fits snugly. The cells are padded with felt and hair, and the cover fits down snugly, so there is little friction when the wagon is in motion.

He carefully avoids any towns that are in his way, by driving round them; he doesn't want to fracture any village ordinances and pay a fine. Here and there he may rattle across a little bridge near a farm house and a face will appear at the window. It is the farmer's wife and she breathes a sigh of relief when the shooter and his dangerous load disappear at a bend in the road. He appears to be driving recklessly, but he is not. If the road is smooth he lets his team trot briskly, but over the rough stretches he picks his way carefully, realizing that at any moment a sudden jar may send him and his team flying into space.

When he reaches the well, he unhitches his team and ties them a few hundred feet away. He takes the tin shells and carries them into the derrick. He is told at what depth the well is to be shot and some of the lease hands lend him a hand in getting ready. He takes a reel of stout cord from the wagon and attaches it to a bale of a tin shell after passing it through a pulley. Then he carries the cans of nitro-glycerine from the wagon to the derrick floor. As fast as a shell is filled with nitro-glycerine it is lowered to the bottom of the well by means of the rope and pulley. The empty cans are carefully placed in the wagon, to be used again. The shells rest on top of each other and on top of the last shell lowered an iron firing head is litted. If there is not already several hundred feet of oil or water in the well to act as tamping, it is run in after the shot is lowered. When everything is ready, the employes leave the derrick and seek a safe place several hundred feet away. The shooter takes a sharp-pointed eight-pound castiron weight and drops it into the hole. Then he runs as fast as his legs will carry him. The "go-devil." as the weight is called, strikes the firing head and explodes the shot. There is a rumblins sound, a column of oil and water rises a few feet in the derrick and falls back again, then with an irresistable rush the column rises high over the derrick top and falls in a golden shower in every direction, like the flow of a Yellowstone geyser. Sometimes the flow continues for an hour, but usually for only a few minutes The greatest flow recorded in the oil regions was made by a well on Thorn Creek in Butler county, Pennsylvania. It is thus described by Frank H. Paylor, an old time oil region journalist: "When the shot took effect and the barren rock, as if smitten by the rod of Moses, poured forth its torrent of oil, it was such a magnificent and awful spectacle that no painter's brush or poet's pen could do it justice. Men familiar wit... the wonderful sights of the oil country were struck dumb with astonishment as they beheld the mighty display of nature's forces. There was no sudden reaction after the torpedo exploded. A column of water rose eight or ten feet and fell back again; some time elapsed before the force of the explosion empthed the hole and the burnt glycerine, mud and sand rushed up in the derrick in a black stream. The blackness gradually changed to yellow; then with a mighty roar, the gas burst forth with a deafening noise, like the thunderbolt set free. For a moment the cloud of gas hid the derrick from sight, and then, as this cleared away, a solid golden column half a foot in diameter shot from the derrick floor eighty feet through the air, till it broke in fragments on the crown pulley and fell in a shower of yellow rain for rods around, For over an hour that grand column of oil rushing swifter than any correct and straight as a mountain pine, united derrick floor and top. In a few minutes the ground around the derrick was covered inches deep with petroleum. The branches of the oak trees were like huge yellow plumes, and a stream as large as a man's body ran down the hill into the road. It filled the space beneath the small bridge, and continuing down the hill through the woods beyond, spread out upon the flats. In two hours these flats were covered with cil. The hillside was as if a yellow freshet had passed over it. Heavy clouds of gas, almost obscuring the derrick, hung low in the woods, and still the mighty russh continued. Some of those who witnessed it estimated the well to be flowing five hundred barrels an hour. Dams were built across the stream that its production might be estimated; the dams overflowed and were swept away before they could be completed. People living along Thorn Creek packed up their household goods and fled to the hillsides. The pump station, a mile and a half down the creek, had to extlnN

The strangest thing about this particular well is that its owners believed it to be dry, and if it had not been torpedoed, its value would never have been known.

Just whalt the bottom of an oil well looks like after an explosion can only be conjectured. The shots of nitro-glycerine range all the way from forty to four hundred quarts-the latter is exceptional. One hundred quarts of nitro-glycerine produce the same effect that the explosion of a ton of gunpowder would, and a heavy shot must tear out a great cavern in the soft and porous oil rock. People who have visited Niagara or Portage Falls and seen the walls of rock that line both sides of the gulch can get a good idea of what the interior of an oil well looks like. After the drill passes through fifty or a hundred feet of loose earth and gravel formation it pierces solid rock until the oil sands are reached. The oil and gas sands are held prisoner between ledges of solid rock several hundred feet in thickness. The oilbearing rock varies in color, but always resembles a sponge in appearance. Under a microscope you see countless millions of little cells like a honeycombs. The usual size of the hole is five and five-eighth inches. The man who sent his wife to the oil country and wrote her to be careful and not let Whlie fall into an oil well evidently thought that the diameter of an oil well was equal to that of a cistern. But he might have been a humorist!

Hundreds of shooters have met with tragic deaths since Col. Drake tapped the pay streak on Oil Creek with his spring pole and that backwoods section became the Mecca of fortune seekers from every part of the world. The first fatal accident in the oil regions that can be charged up to an oil-well torpedo occurred in August. 1867, near Reno, Pa. William Munson, one of the pioneer makers of torpedoes, entered his workshop alone one day to fill an order, and that was the last seen of him alive. The houses in the village were jarred by the force of a terific explosion, and when the people rushed toward Munson's workshop they were horrified to find a hole in the ground, hundreds of splinters scattered about, and hundreds of bits of flesh and bone strewed around in the neighboring field. The jar caused by the first explosion had hardly died away before another occurred in the same locality and the list lengthens with every year that goes by. In 1898 no less than eight shooters were wiped out of existence by nitro-glycerine.

Two of the luckiest shooters were James Sanders and Warren Van Curen. Sanders was employed for years by the Roberts monopoly and fired 6,000 torpedoes without an accident. He earned a competence, retired from the business and died a natural death. Warren Van Curen of Bolivar has shot more than 3,000 wells without an accident, and is still engaged in the business. Shooters are paid from $100 to $150 a month when regularly employed, and from $5 to $10 a shot when not on a salary.

Out in Indiana in the summer of 1896, a stock wagon with a ton of nitro-glycerine on board "went up" as the driver was fording a stream. A gypsy colony was camped on the bank of the stream not far away and several of their horses were killed and their camp was wrecked by the force of the explosion. The gypsies solemuly declared that they saw the driver shoting toward the stars at a rapid pace astride of the wagon seat, but they grew tired of watching for him to come down.

On December 23, 1896, a magazine blew up near Montpelier, Ind., and two men and two teams were blown to atoms. The magazine contained 1,000 pounds of stock. For several hundred feet in every direction from the magazine the forest was moved down as if by a tornado. Great oak trees three feet in diameter were broken squarely off and the limbs of the trees were littered with flesh. The two men and four horses were scattered into a billion bits and no attempt was made to separate the ghastly particles of flesh and bone. A remarkable thing was the fact that a heavy steel tire from one of the wagons was wrapped around a tree many rods away. One of the shooters was George Hicock, a glant in stature. He had been shooting since 1878, and this was his first accident. That morning when he left home he was unusually cheerful. He kissed his wife and daughter good-bye, as was his custom. In answer to a query if he would be home to dinner, he said:

"You know, Jennie, we are never sure of coming back."

In November, 1896, two men were hauling a load or nitro-glycerine from a factory near Johnsonburg, Pa., to a magazine a few miles away. While going up a hill, the load of 1,900 pounds exploded with a detonation that was heard miles away. All the big crowd of sightseers that was attracted to the spot found was a .ole in the road. The men and team had disappeared. All that remained of the men was placed in five-quart pail and taken to Johnsonburg for burial. Trees near the spot were shattered, windows in the varage were broken, dishes were jarred from pantry shelves and chimneys miles away were shaken to pieces.

A queer accident happened in Venango county, Pa. A shooter hid a can or nitroglycerine in a stump, where it was found by a woman who was picking berries. She carried the can home and gave it to her husband. He thought it was lard oil and took it to an engine house to use it as a lubricant. One day he poured a few drops of it on a heated journal. In an instant the engine house was blown to pieces and the engineer was killed. Three other men at work near by were badly injured. The cause of the accident was mysterious. _ neighbor solved it by putting one drop of the supposed ard oil on an anvil and striking it with hammer. The force of the explosion knocked him down.

Nitro-glycerine congeals very easily and freezes much more quickly than water. It cannot be used in a frozen state, and often in winter the shooters are compelled to thaw it out at the wells. This is done by immersing the cans in a barrel filled with hot water. Several frightful accidents have been caused by the thawing-out process. In fact, at no time or place is the handling of nitro-glycerine conductive of long life. Ja mesFeeny of Bradford went through an explosion and lives to tell the story. With another shooter he was driving along the road with a load of nitro-glycerine. sleigh tipped over and the shot exploded. Feeny's companion was blown to pieces, but Feeny fell into a rut and was buried under a shower of mud and fence rails. He was badly scarred and his hearing was destroyed, but he still lives to tell the story. He says the only impression he had was that a house had fallen on him. When he came to, he dug the mud out of his eves and discovered that an explosion had taken place. He had no feeling from his shoulders to his toes and alt first was only able to crawl with his hands and drag his body along. It was many days before the paralyzed feeling wore away entirely.

An awful fate overtook a drunken shooter near Red Rock, Pa. He came into that little oil town one evening with a bag containing two cans of nitro-glycerine thrown across his shoulder. He handled the bag in a style that scared the villagers almost to death, but they dared not wrest it from hlm. They were happy when he left the town and started up a long hill. Half way up he slipped and fell. There was a loud report and the hapless shooter was distributed over many acres of ground—a frightful example of the effects of mixing whisky and nitro-glycerine.

In March, 1896, an employe of the High Exlosive Company was driving along a mountain road in McKean county, Pa., with a load of 500 quarts of nitro-glycerine. Going up a steep hill one of his horses slipped on the icy road and the wagon rapidly backed down the hill. Over the embankment it went and the wagon and team lodged against a tree far below the road. The wagon box was torn off and the cans of nitro-glycerine scattered about in every direction, but no explosion took place. Just why, is one of those mysterious things that no man can explain. The driver would not repeat the experience for all the money that was ever minted. But he picked up the cans the next day and is still in the business.

There is no man alive lo-day who had a more exciting experience than a shooter named John McCleary. While filling a shell in the derrick, the well flowed and Mc-Cleary ran. The column of oil threw the shell out of the hole and it exploded, wreck ing the derrick and tossing McCleary to the ground. As he rose, four cans on the derrick floor exploded. The force of the second explosion sent the shooter fifty feet through the air, filling his back with pieces of tin and splinters. He fell stunned and bleeding, but survived the injuries sustained. Near Wildwood, Pa., a shooter had a similar experience. The well flowed, and as the shell came up ont of the well, he threw his arm about it and held it until the flow of oil ceased. It is that kind of an experience that is calculated to turn a man's hair gray in short order.

There was one shooter of whom a trace was never found, and that fact led to trouble. Doc. Haggerty was hauling a load of 1,400 pounds of nitro-glycerine near Pleasantville, Pa., one stormy day in No vember, 1888. He was sitting on his wagon a few minutes before the explosion took place. A few pieces of his horses were picked up, but not one atom of Haggerty. He had disappeared as completely as if he hod been kidnapped by spirits from above the clouds. An insurance company refused to pay a $5,000 olicy on the ground that there was no evidence that he was not aive, and the matter was taken into the courts and the insurance comany beaten. Experts testified that the heat of the xenlosion was sufficient to cremate every particle of the body, clothing and all, instantaneously. When the explosion took place Haggerty's wife was ill and the shock nearly killed her. SShe was prevailed on not to look in the casket when the funeral was held, and it was not until the insurance case was tried that she learned that the only thing in the casket that was buried was the lining.

But there is a bright sind to the story of annihilation. A good story is told at the expense of a giant blacksmith who stuttered. He came into the oil country and applied for a job. Asked of he could strike a greater blow than any man in the shop, he answered that he could. A test was arranged. Two or three drops of what looked like lard oil were poured on the anvil and the big man braced himself for a powerful blow. The sledge came down with force of a pile driver and struck the glycerine. There was a deafening report, the sledge went through the roof and the big blacksmith was banged against the slde of the shop hard enough to knock off a dozen boards. When he crawled out and surveyed the havoc, he only said: "I t—t—told you I co—cou—could h.—hit a he—heh—he.. of a b—b—b—b—blow."

WHERE DO THEY COME FROM?

From proprietary remedies? Not much. Price cutting has killed that. From prescriptions? Partly, but not so much as formerly. Nowadays, the wide awake druggist makes his best money from specialties.

There is more money in some quick, easy seller, that can be sold to nearly every person who comes into the store, at a moderate price, to yield a fair profit, than in anything else.

It seems stange, but it is true that men have been brave enough to rob nitroglycerine magazines. A magazine near Bradford blew up one night in October, 1882, after several ineffectual attempts had been made to rob it. Who the thieves were was never learned. Traces lood and ortions of flesh on the stones and brush nearby indleated that at least two persons were engaged in the job. They disappeared as completely as if the earth had opened and engulfed them. It was a case of retribution as swnt as it was terrible. But other thieves had better luck and magazines were frequently looted of their contents when the stuff was more valuable than it is today and detection next to impossible.

The most horrible accident in the history of the Ohio oil field occurred in the village of Cygnet on Sept. 8, 1897. A well located nearly in the centre of the viage was to be shot at 7 o clock in the evening, and a large crowd gathered to see the ...w. Sam Barber, the shooter, safely lowered the shot to the oil sand. The fire under the boiler w s supposed to be out. The crowd retired to a supposed safe distance, and Barber dropped "go-devil." A great column of oil spouted over the derrick and the gas belched forth with a hissing sound. In less than two minutes there was an explosion that sent a stream of fire into the air for a hundred feet around in every direction. The gas had been ignited by what remained of the fire under the boiler. The spraying oil set fire to a number of buildings, and while the citizens were trying to save thebuildings another terrific explosion occurred. It seems that there was still a quantity of nitro-glycerine in the wagon, and when it expioded every window light in the village was smashed out, and many buildings were shaken to pieces. The great derrick and timbers were torn to pieces and several persons were killed and many others injured. One man had his head brown off, two men were cremated by burning oil, and a boy had his leg blown off and bled to death. The whole village was in mourning and every other house was converted into a hospital. The shooter, strange to say, was not killed, but badly burned by oil. He was arrested and an effort made to fix the responsibility of the accident on him, but it failed, and he was discharge. from custody. The oddest circumstances connected with this accident was the fate that befell one of the spectators, who stood nearly two hundred feet from the we- when the second explosion occurred. A spoke from the snooting wagon was driven through his body, just below the shoulder. He walked home with the blood gushing from the gaping wound and lived until the following day.

The man who made and exploded the first pound of nitro-glycerine in a noil well, is hale and hearty at 72. Hls name is William A. Myers, and his home is in Bolivar, N. Y. He built the first factory crected in the United States near Titusville in 1868. Up to that time powder had been used to torpedo oil wells, and an explosive that could discharge under water was found in nitroglycerine. Myers' father was a Philadelphia chemist and taught his son how to make nitro-glycerine. The first well tor-pedoed was on the Col. Mills' lease near Titusville and only ten pounds of nitroglycerine were used. Oil was worth $9 a barrel then, and a toredo that would double the production of a well was worth almost what the maker had a mind to ask for It. Myers made the expresive in earthern crocks for two years, and there was not money enough in the country to secure a helper. Later he invented a machine that made a thousand pounds a day. Farmers would drive three miles out of their way to avoid passing the factory, and no visitors came to see how the stuff was made. The second man ever killed by a torpedo explosion was so badly shattered Myers picked up all that remained of him and carried it to Titusville in a handkerchief. Myers built twelve factories in different parts of the oil regions from 1868 to 1885, when he retired from the business, and some of them he rebuilt several times after explosions had demolished them. Only one of the original factories stands intact to-day. Myers made several fortunes and spent his money like a prince, as was the custom of the oil region, but he still has enough laid by to tide him out to the end of the journey.

I recently spent an afternoon with him looking over the reports of his work in ...e natro-glycerine business. He has kept a daiy report of his seventeen years' wor. of making 'tro-glycerine and of his work as a shooter. We figured up and found that in his time he had made just a trifle less than 8,000,000 ounds of n.ro-glycerine. Some days he turned out as many as 5,000 pounds. His records are as carefully kept as the pension records are. For several years he was superintendent for the Roberts Torpedo Company, the giant monopoly that fattened at the expense of the oil producers, and I doubt if there is living to-day a man who has a set of records of the business that will begin to compare with those he has preserved. He has the signatures of over 100 shooters who have been blown up, and he has had some exciting experiences himself. He knows how it feels to be blown up. One day in 1882, a factory in Bolivar Run, containing 3,200 pounds of nitro-glycerine, blew up. Myers had just stepped outside the factory and was not over fifty feet away when the explosion took place. He was hurled through the air a distance of 100 feet and he was almost nude when he recovered his senses, but, strange to relate, he was not seriously injured. He lost his nerve after this experience and four years later retired from the

The latest tragedy to be charged up to nitro-glycerine occurred near Orcharu Park, ten miles southwest of Buffalo, N. Y.. Dec. 29. Charles F. Newton, a member of the Newton Torpedo Company of Bradford, and an experienced and careful shooter, was thawing out some glycerine preparatory to shooting a well. He forgot to pull one corks out of the cans as he immersed them in a barrel of warm water, at least, that is what the other shooters believe, and there was a terrific explosion. All that could be found of him would not fill a cigar box. It was placed in a child's casket and sent home. His horses were not more than two rods away and were not injured. drillers stood within fifty feet, and they escaped injury. Nothing is queerer than the pranks that nitro-glycerine cuts up, and no prophet can tell when it will cut loose.

Since I came to the oil country I have known many shooters and there was only one of them who did not confess to me that he was afraid of nitro-glycerlne. That was Henry Young. He began shooting o'll wells when he was a stripling and had narrow escaes. He had the nerve of a lion, and I am convinced that he did not know what fear was. On 'March 22, 1897, he he drove out of the village of Wellsville, N. Y., to a magazine located in an oen field, a mile and a quarter away. He drove u to a long, narrow lane, to a ...tle knowl, where the magazine stood, hitched his team, and entered the magazine to get a load of stock. It had been raining that morning, and the ground was wet and siery. Two farmers mending fences fifty rods away saw him come out of the magazine w... a can in each hand. He entered the maigazine again, and appeared at a door a moment and stepped outside quickly as though trying to ward off a blow. Perhaps he dropped a can. There was a deafening report and a flash, the earth trembled, the air was filled with flying debris; shooter, team, wagon and magazine disappeared in a cloud of smoke and dust. The farmers were knocked down by the force of he explosion and one of them was cut on the scalp by a jawbone of one of the horses.

Two hours after the accident, in company with the shooter's father, I arrived on the scene of the tragedy. It was a si lening sight. A hole in the vellow clay sixteen feet across and eight feet deep mar .. ed the location of the magazine, -- e flas. o. the explosion had burned the surface clay brown. A section of the trunk of one of the horses lay close by. The hair was singed off and the shoes were torn from the feet. The entrails were removed as cleanly as a surgeon could have done it. A shattered leg was all that was to be found of the other horse. A short stub of the tongue and a section of axle picked up many rods away were all that remained of the wagon. Of the shooter, we picked up a few small pieces of flesh, a hip joint and a few pieces of underelothing after a search that covered m'any acres. Young was only 26 years old and had been shooting oil wells for eight years. A few days before the accident that cut short his career I met him on the road one morning. He drove a handsome gray team and as I reined out to let him pass, he stopped to give me the latest oil news. "Well, old boy, take care of yourself and don't furnish me with a topic for an obituary," I sain as he drove away. 'You can always trust me to do that," he sang out, as his wagon disappeared in a bend in the road, and he resumed the merry thue that he was whistling when I met him. And then I wondered as he drove away how long he would continue to tempt Providence.—Pittsburg Post.

Albove is a half-tone representation of our booth at the recent very successful "Commercial and Mercantile Exhibition" held in this city under the management and direction of the Commercial Travelers' Association of Troy, during the week of February 20-25, last.

No similar exhibition was ever given in any city that scored the success that this one did, it being estimated that it was visited during the week by upwards of 150,000 people.

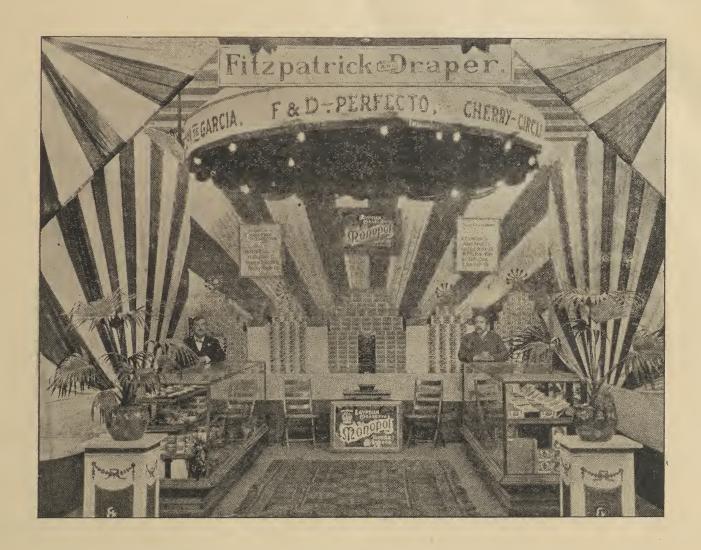

The most happy hit of the Exhibition was our "Resting, Reading and Writing Booth." As the picture shows it was elegantly fitted up alt a cost of $200.00 to represent a fine and richly furnished reception room.

The draperies on the wails were the very finest that could be procured in the city, the floor was richly carpeted, and the ceiling effect being in harmony made a striking impression upon the visitor.

Compliments were given us from right and left on account of the original idea. In addition, we made application to Mr. J. A. Leggett, postmaster of the city of Troy, through his genial deputy, Mr. De Freest, for a United States Mail Box, and Mr. Leggett, who always appreciates a good thing and does his best to help it along immediately gave his consent. Collections were made three times daily and the box was generally full of mail matter each time. It was the only mail box in the hall.

In addition to this convenience there was supplied to all visitors that wished to write a letter home to their friends, such writing material as was necessary, including handsome writing paper, a stamped envelope and a souvenir sachet envelope, all free of charge. This privilege was taken advantage of by something like 2,000 people during the week. We were visited also by over 300 of our customers whom we were very glad to see and be given a chance to entertain, which we did to the best of our ability, ably assisted by our seven traveling salesmen.

TO THE RETAIL DRUG TRADE.

The illustration shown herewith is a photo reproduction of our exhibit at the recent fair held in our city under the direction of the Commercial Travelers' Association. This exhibit consisted only of the highest grades of cigars, cigarettes, tobaccos, pipes and smoker's articles, (such gcods as are demanded by the patrons of the retail drug trade). Being distributing agents for the Clear Havana Factories of the E. H. Gato Cigar Co., Julius Ellinger & Co. and Gonzalez, Mora & Co., the quality and character of whose brands are widely known, we are in a position to promptly furnish a complete assortment of their best selling sizes. We also offer for your selection a full line of imported and domestic briar and meerschaum pipes, fancy smoking tobaccos and the best makes of Turkish and Egyptian cigarettes.

In addition to the above we would especially bring to your notice the fact of our being manufacturers of the highest grades of domestic eigars, which are acknowledged in the trade as being standard: The Flor de Garcia at $70 per M., the F. & D. Perfecto at $65 per M., the Cherry Circle at $60 per M. and the celebrated Trojan 5-cent eigar at $35 per M., and has been productive of so many inquiries and orders from the retail druggists that visited the exhibition that we are led to direct our efforts still further in advertising a line that are trade-winners and trade-holders.

Through the courtesy of the Polk & Calder Drug Company, who present this very complete Price List and Market Review, we have made a special arrangement whereby we can ship with your order to them for druggist's supplies, any order for the above mentioned line you may be pleased to favor us with. Prompt and satisfactory handling of orders guaranteed.

Price list furnished upon application and trial order solicited.

Fred Brown's Jamaica Ginger.

Fred Brown's Jamaica Ginger stands to day as it did 75 years ago, the standard preparation of pure Jamaica Ginger—a remedial agent of the highest reciability. So great has been its success that hundreds of imitations are made to-day and foisted upon the public as "Brown's Ginger." These should be strenuously avoided. A simple means of getting the genuine is to ask for FRED Brown's Jamaica Ginger, and see that the red label is on the wrapper with this trade mark.

Then use

Season with salt and pepper, or butter, if desired. Remember that a small, rich hot drink makes a long drink, as well as profitable.

The Model Nurser.

The Latest and Best

Invention of its Kind.

PROMINENT PHYSICIANS, NURSES AND OTHERS RECOMMEND IT.

MOTHERS who have not yet used the Model Nurser should give it a trial. Once used and you will never use any other. It is easy to handle, becomes a delight and convenience for the Mother and a boon for the Baby. Easily kept clean. The Nipple being securely fastened, prevents accidents to children as now frequently occurring with the old style Nursing Bottles, ofttimes ending in choking them. Retailers should recommend them to their customers as they are trade winners.

Retail price, 25 cts. each.

Live Druggists Only Should Read This!

WE WISH TO MAKE THEM STOCKHOLDERS IN OUR COMPANY.

Who WE Are.

Well, to read the ads. in the Trade Journals, we seem to be the only manufacturers who pay the revenue tax because we are COMPELLED TO and not out of pure "patriotism." Not only this, unlike all others, we now propose to reduce our price instead of raising it: and furthermore, make the first five hundred druggists who accept our offer stockholders in our company.

OUR PLAN:

On and after December 1st, 1898, all the Hyomei preparations will be packed thirteen bottles instead of twelve to a dozen; thus giving the retailer a discount, while the jobber's price remains the same. Moreover, if you will send us an order on your wholesaler for one dozen Hyomei outfits, price $9.00. or its equivalent in other Hyomei preparations, we will put you in the way of becoming a stockholder in The R. T. Booth Company, which stock is already paying a dividend of 6 per cent. per annum.

Other manufacturers tell us that our efforts to help the retailer will be wasted. We do not believe it, and for the next twelve months shall bend all our energies toward introducing our remedies to the public, and working through and in the interests of the retail druggists; not because we have any overwhelming love for the druggist, himself alone, but because we believe that if he is financially interested in our preparations he will push them, and thus earn greater dividends for us as well as himself. This is the first attempt to make the retailer and manufacturer mutually interested in the sale of a proprietary article. Do you appreciate it?

Full explanation of stock plan sent to any druggist.

Is Your Stock Sufficient for the Increasing Demand?

From The National Druggist.—"Flag Salt should be put on the list of goods on which the retailer is not expected to pay the internal revenue tax. The manufacturers, the Flag Salt Remedy Co., of Savannah, N. Y., refuse to inflict this burden upon the retail trade, preferring to reduce their own profit rather than be unpatriotic or unjust to the druggists. Flag Salt is a remedy for headache and neuralgia, which is rapidly growing in popularity with the public. This action on the part of the manufacturers should insure the good will of the druggists, and they should do all they can to push the article, by displaying it in their store, and calling attention to it."
